

On Freud's "Inhibitions, Symptoms and Anxiety"

Edited by Samuel Arbiser and Jorge Schneider

CONTEMPORARY

FREUD

TURNING POINTS
& CRITICAL ISSUES

INTERNATIONAL
PSYCHOANALYTICAL
ASSOCIATION

CONTENTS

CONTEMPORARY FREUD

IPA Publications Committee

vii

ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

ix

EDITORS AND CONTRIBUTORS

xi

Introduction

Samuel Arbiser

1

PART I

"Inhibitions, symptoms and anxiety" (1926d)

Sigmund Freud

9

PART II

Discussion of "Inhibitions, symptoms and anxiety"

101

- 1 The correlation between anxiety and danger:
vicissitudes of mental functioning

Horacio Rotemberg

103

2	On the complex, relational nature of Freud's thinking on primary anxiety in Inhibitions, Symptoms and Anxiety : differences from and ties to Klein Rachel B. Blass	119
3	Winnicott and Kohut: their theories of anxiety Kenneth M. Newman	133
4	Primordial anxiety, drive, and the need for the progressive movement Luciane Falcão	142
5	Clarifications and comments on Inhibitions, Symptoms and Anxiety from a Lacanian perspective Leonardo Peskin	155
6	Psychoanalytic theory of anxiety: proposals for reconsideration Edward Nersessian	172
7	Traumatic seduction and sexual inhibition Elsa Schmid-Kitsikis	185
8	Freud's writing in the twenties: theory construction and clinical research in Inhibitions, Symptoms and Anxiety Giovanni Foresti	200
9	The death of an adult child: contemporary psychoanalytic models of mourning Jorge Schneider	219
10	An unexpected clinical experience: rethinking affects Samuel Arbiser	231
	REFERENCES	243
	INDEX	253